Letter From The

SUPERINTENDENT

In the final chapter of The Republic, Plato tells of souls in the afterlife choosing the kind of lives they will live next. Many choose wealth and power, only to discover that those choices lead to misery. Wisdom is displayed in Odysseus, who, after a life of fame and power, chooses a quiet, ordinary life, knowing the dangers that often accompany status and ambition.

This classic book closes with the reminder that a thoughtful, virtuous life is more valuable than social conformity or the careless pursuit of power and wealth.

This feels particularly relevant in our culture. Neuroscientist Jared Cooney Horvath argues that the current generation is the first in over a century to show declining cognitive scores, with digital habits playing a significant role(1). But before blaming our children, we should remember how culture creep has changed our own habits.

The Reformed tradition, especially here in the Midwest, was known for its “farmer theologians.” Before television, it was common to find the family Bible on the mantel alongside works by Herman Bavinck, Abraham Kuyper, or John Calvin. Christian schools were founded not simply to prepare students for jobs, but to teach them how to think, work, discern, and live faithfully.

That is still our calling at Central.

Education is never neutral. It shapes values, habits, and loves. A Christian school must resist the temptation to treat education only as utility. When students ask, “When will I ever use this?” the deep truth is that education is formative, not merely functional. Math teaches logic and perseverance. Literature and story cultivate moral imagination. History gives perspective, and language trains clarity of thought.

Part of my role as a school leader is to be the CRO, “Chief Reminding Officer”, helping us remember who we are while resisting the pressures that constantly seek to shape us. TikTok, ESPN, Instagram, Netflix, FOX News, YouTube; endless voices are always teaching something.

Clarity about our purpose is critical.

Academically, we are a liberal arts school committed to teaching broad subject matter with intellectual depth. We value education and promote lifelong learning. Spiritually, we teach that all truth is God’s truth and that learning should form our virtue and values through a biblical worldview. Financially, we believe stewardship means funding the mission with excellence for the next 100 years.

Our children will still be formed, and if we are not intentional, it will be through voices and values we did not choose. Our task is not merely to transfer information, but to cultivate wisdom, virtue, and faithfulness: preparing students not simply for careers, but for lives of loving God, thinking clearly, serving others, and recognizing truth, goodness, and beauty in God’s world.

In His Service,
Jonathan De Groot, Superintendent

Letter From The

BOARD PRESIDENT

Dear Central Minnesota Christian School Community,

One of the most powerful things I have witnessed during my time on the board is how deeply this community loves Central Minnesota Christian School. The level of attachment, support, and involvement from families, alumni, churches, and supporters is truly moving. It is a reminder that this school means something significant to all of us.

At a broad level, we all want the same thing, a Christ-centered, quality education that equips students for a life of service. Along with that mission comes a shared desire to protect and strengthen the school so that it will still be faithfully serving students and families 100 years from now.

Providing Christian education today is more complex than ever, and faithful stewardship requires us to adapt to the times while staying rooted in our mission. While the mission of the school mirrors what was started 100 years ago, the world we live in is a different place, and stewarding God's school well means thoughtfully adjusting our operations to meet the moment.

A board functioning at its best is united around our mission, while a capable administration leads the daily work of carrying it out. The board's responsibility is to thoughtfully consider questions such as: How many students can we serve well? How do we continue to develop wise policy? How do we strengthen our culture, engage our community, and equip parents as partners in providing a quality, Christ-centered education? How do we raise the resources needed to sustain and grow this mission? And how do we make decisions that remain aligned with our mission, vision, and values?

One area where we recognize the need to grow to fulfill our mission is around communication. After all, even the best plans are incomplete if we do not have a strong communication loop. Conversations, lunches, coffee with parents and supporters, connecting people to our mission and vision, listening to feedback, and honoring the commitment families make to invest in Christian education—all of this is important board work.

Central Minnesota Christian School has a rich heritage, and this community's love for the school is evident. Please know that we see it, we value it, and we are deeply moved by it. It strengthens our resolve to protect and steward this gift well.

Thank you for your continued partnership with Central Minnesota Christian School.

With gratitude,
Joe Vander Ark, Board President

Board PERSPECTIVES

“As I reflect on my time serving on the Board and chairing the Advancement Committee, I am deeply grateful for the Lord’s continued faithfulness to Central. It has been encouraging to witness how God provides through the generosity, vision, and commitment of our expanding community to sustain and grow this mission. Advancement work gives a unique perspective on both the needs and the opportunities before us—reminding me that every gift, every prayer, and every act of support plays a part in shaping the lives of our students. While there are always challenges in stewarding resources and planning for the future, I am continually inspired by the unity and purpose we share in Christ. It is a privilege to serve in this role, trusting that God will continue to guide and provide so that Central can flourish for generations to come.”

- Chris Schlegel

“During my first year of serving on the Board, I have come to deeply appreciate how this role is truly one of stewardship. It has been a year of learning, listening, and seeking wisdom as I’ve been a part of decisions that impact the spiritual direction and future of our students and school. I’ve seen firsthand the dedication of our teachers, staff, and leadership who faithfully live out the mission each day, and I’ve been encouraged by the growth of our students both academically and in their walk with Christ. This year has also reminded me of the importance of unity, prayer, and trust in God’s guidance as we navigate challenges and opportunities. I am grateful for the partnership of families, churches, and this community, and I count it a privilege to serve in this role, trusting that the Lord will continue to lead and sustain this school as we look ahead.”

Staff PERSPECTIVES

“Central Minnesota Christian was my first "real" job out of college. I was going to stay for three years and then look for a school closer to my family. Here I am, 26 years later, still teaching at Central and a parent of a third grader! This school has been such a blessing to me, and Bluejay Nation is so special to be a part of. This is incredibly evident as I watch staff and families invest abundantly in both my son and me. I can't say enough about how God has used this place to help me grow and mature in my faith. I'm incredibly grateful to be able to work at Central Minnesota Christian School!”

- Mindy Groen, High School Teacher

“It is a joy to teach at Central Minnesota Christian School with its amazing staff and school families. I marvel at all the extra time put in by teachers, administration, and parents, done with love for students, community, and God.”

- Sarah Brouwer, Middle School Teacher

“Having my children at a school that cares for the whole student—academically, personally, and most importantly, spiritually—has been such a blessing. Knowing their teachers are invested in all three areas means more to me than I can express. I also feel incredibly grateful to teach in an environment that values the same approach. While I have always been able to support students academically and personally, having the freedom to share my faith and engage openly in conversations about theirs has been deeply meaningful. It has not only impacted my students, but has also strengthened my own faith. I truly feel blessed that God led my family and me to this community.”

- Laura Rosen, Elementary School Teacher

Central TEST SCORES COMPARISON

At Central, academic excellence is more than a goal—it is part of our vision to help each student grow in knowledge and faith. One way we see growth in action is through standardized testing. In 2025, our elementary students scored 16–51% higher than their peers in area public schools. These results show that Central students are not just meeting expectations—they are exceeding local benchmarks in both reading and math.

But these numbers tell only part of the story. Behind every score is a classroom where teachers challenge students to think critically, families who encourage learning at home, and students who dive into their studies with curiosity and determination.

Together, this partnership brings Central’s Christ-centered approach to life, helping students reach their full God-given potential—both in the classroom and beyond.

Central Elementary Results

Determined by IA Standards Proficiency

GRADE	READING	MATH
First Grade	72.7%	63.6%
Second Grade	82.4%	82.4%
Third Grade	84.8%	90.9%
Fourth Grade	71.4%	90.4%
Fifth Grade	85.0%	90.0%
Elem. Average	80.0%	83.8%

Area Public Elementary Schools Results

Determined by MN Standards Proficiency

GRADE	READING	MATH
Public School A	44.6%	41.5%
Public School B	38.9%	32.7%
Public School C	35.6%	39.6%
Public School D	56.1%	67.8%

When reviewing proficiency rates, a few differences to note between the assessments used at Central and those used in area public schools are:

Central Students take the Iowa Assessments (formerly known as the Iowa Test of Basic Skills) - a nationally recognized norm-referenced test used by many Christian Schools across the country. The Iowa Assessments also align well with most state standards nationwide. When we talk about proficiency, assessments that are norm-referenced (how a student compares to the other students taking the same test), most states, including Iowa, use a National Percentile Rank (NPR) of 41% or higher as the proficiency cut line to determine students "on or above grade level." For example, if a school has a 75% proficiency rate, it means that three-quarters of the school ranked at or above 41% nationally.

Area public schools administer the Minnesota Comprehensive Assessments (MCAs), which are criterion-referenced assessments that are aligned with Minnesota State Standards, and determine proficiency at a fixed performance level based on the students meeting the standards.

Even with different testing systems, Central's performance stands out: our students are mastering key concepts and achieving at levels that far exceed local benchmarks.

Christ-Centered Education

Since 1911, Christ-centered education has been the focus at Central Minnesota Christian School. Central teachers embed God's truth into all subject areas while also implementing discipleship habits. Christ-centered education is not only learning His story, but also living His story. - Dean Stier, Principal

Central Stories

Servant Working

In 2nd-grade Bible class, Mrs. Katie TeBrake is teaching students through the Gospels about the lead-up to Christ's death and resurrection.

"One of the lessons was Jesus as a servant. We talk about what it means to be a servant and what it meant for Jesus, a highly respected man, to be a servant to his disciples. We read the story from John 13:1-17 in our Bibles and discussed why Jesus did this for his disciples. We discussed what feet were like in the Bible times, and that usually the lowest servant would wash people's feet before they entered houses. Throughout this passage, we learned that Jesus washed his disciples' feet because he was showing them how he wanted them to serve others. We also talked about how Jesus wanted his followers to know that no one is greater than another. We are all of the same importance. I told the students that even though I am your teacher and you are to respect me, I am not more important than you are. I told them that I wanted to show them what it might have felt like to be one of Jesus' disciples that night and that I, as their teachers can also serve them. I told them that I was going to wash their feet. They thought that was crazy but fun, and it was very powerful for them to experience what it meant for me to serve them." - Mrs. Katie TeBrake

Community Building

In 6th-grade ELA class, Mrs. Taatjes is teaching students how to write biographies while building community with Bethesda's residents.

"A lot of time was spent pre-visit preparing students for their interviews. In Life Skills during our Communications Unit, we focused on the importance of body language, eye contact, and posture. Students practiced interviewing each other, asking follow-up questions, and speaking in front of the class. In ELA, students participated in simulations to better understand challenges residents may face, such as loss of dexterity, loss of hearing/vision, and loss of mobility. This was eye-opening for many students and helped them better understand what others may be going through. Following the interviews, students are working hard to prepare an accurate biography for their resident as well as a "word of wisdom" that they took away from the interview. We will return to Bethesda in April with a biography report, Word of Wisdom poster, and a picture of each student with their resident.

I was very impressed with the incredible job the students did interviewing the residents at Bethesda. They were careful listeners, and many students offered to pray with their residents at the end of their interview. They were blessed to be a blessing, and it was a great opportunity for our 6th graders!" - Mrs. Megan Taatjes

Teaching FOR TRANSFORMATION

Throughlines

Throughlines are discipleship habits and practices that both form the learners and transform God's world around them. Throughlines help students, teachers, and parents imagine what it means to be a disciple within God's story. They articulate a vision for how our Central graduates will live.

In light of this, our Seniors reflect on these discipleship habits and present on how they will use them in the fields God has called them to. This happens through our Central Capstone Class.

Central Capstone

In 2024, Central introduced the Profile of a Central Graduate, a framework built around our Teaching for Transformation Throughlines—discipleship habits that invite students to see and live out their learning as part of God's story.

To help seniors reflect on these habits in a meaningful and personal way, Central launched a new Bible 12 Capstone course last spring. The course encouraged students to look back on their years at Central and consider how their faith has shaped their learning, relationships, and sense of purpose.

Throughout the semester, seniors created a Faith Formation Portfolio, a collection of essays and photos capturing their growth—academically, spiritually, and personally—during their time at Central.

The experience culminated in May with a Capstone presentation to family, friends, and members of the Central community. Each student explored the vocation they plan to pursue after graduation, interviewing a professional in that field and reflecting on how they might live as engaged citizens in God's kingdom through that work. Presentations were shared before a panel of local business professionals, with scholarships awarded in several categories, including medical, business, agriculture, and public/law.

"Personally, the capstone project was a defining moment for me, during my senior year, further proving my passion for my future. It helped me tie together my abilities to think independently and critically, and to make sure that my faith remains central when choosing my future career path," said 2025 graduate, Naomi Asake.

Coaching FOR TRANSFORMATION

Coaching for Transformation has continued to shape the culture of athletics and activities at Central throughout the 2025-2026 school year. At the beginning of the year, our coaches, athletes, and parents were challenged to embrace the theme “Not to Us” from Psalm 115:1, recognizing that every ability and opportunity in athletics is a gift from God and ultimately meant to bring Him glory.

Athletes were encouraged to compete with gratitude and serve their teammates. Parents were asked to model perspective and unity in supporting their teams. Coaches were challenged to keep the mission first by investing personally in students and modeling Christ-centered leadership.

Through these shared commitments, our programs continue to grow not only in competitiveness but in purpose. Our hope is that when people watch Central Minnesota Christian athletics, they see teams that work hard, care deeply for one another, and seek to give God the glory in both victory and defeat. Thank you for all of your support this year!

ADVANCEMENT

This year in the Advancement Department brought both meaningful highlights and real challenges — but through it all, God has remained faithful.

We were grateful to welcome 370 students to Central this fall, including a thriving 4K class of 24. This is an encouraging sign as we continue building toward growth outlined in the school’s five year sustainability plan.

Even amid the challenges a wet spring and summer brought for our farming community and broader economic uncertainty, our community has continued to show up in generous and faithful ways. The impact of that giving cannot be overstated, and I am deeply grateful for each person who supports our mission, the families we serve, and the students whose lives will be eternally impacted.

STUDENT VOLUNTEER HOURS

This year, the Advancement Committee piloted a new Student Volunteer Program, creating meaningful opportunities for high school students to live out an essential part of our mission: a life of service. Through this program, students in grades 9–12 actively serve within the school community while growing in responsibility, teamwork, and a heart for helping others.

Each student is required to complete a minimum of four service hours, with a variety of opportunities available throughout the year. While these hours fulfill a school commitment, the program is designed to be more than simply checking a box. It invites students to represent Central well, serve others with intention, and make a tangible difference in the life of the school.

We are encouraged to see strong participation and are currently on track for all students to fulfill their required service hours. This year, they have assisted with donor thank you cards, supported our administrative staff, operated live stream cameras for events, worked the concession stands, contributed to projects like landscaping, and so much more.

STUDENT DISCIPLESHIP

Student Discipleship in the elementary grades (Kindergarten through 5th grade) takes place during weekly small groups or chapel services. Small groups, composed of about ten students from different grade levels, are led by our dedicated elementary teachers and community volunteers. These groups engage in lessons that reinforce the topics discussed in chapel and align with our annual theme.

For our 6th through 12th grade students, discipleship takes place through squads, four days a week, and chapel on the fifth day. Middle school squads consist of approximately twenty students from grades 6-8, while high school squads include about ten students from grades 9-12. In these groups, students are guided by their Squad leaders, our committed middle and high school teachers, in meaningful discussions, devotions, and other activities to foster spiritual growth.

In addition to these regular weekly gatherings, the Student Discipleship Team hosts Flock Days and special events, bringing students from K-12 together around a central theme. These moments create invaluable opportunities for mentorship, unity, and shared faith experiences across all grade levels.

Our theme verse for the 2025-2026 school year is Psalm 115:1: "Not to us, not to us, Lord, but to your name be the glory because of your love and faithfulness." Our deep hope for this year is that students grasp that everything we have belongs to God. Our purpose is to direct glory and worship back to God in all that we do.

- Becky Berry, Elementary Student Discipleship Coordinator

FINANCIAL REPORT

Surrounded by our community of believers, Central strives to be fiscally responsible and to steward well the resources entrusted to us. Our goal is to provide students with a Christ-centered, quality education that equips them for a life of service.

Highlights from This Past Year

The Finance Committee and Board established a goal of maintaining three months of operating cash in reserve. We believe this is an important step in being faithful stewards and ensuring continuity in the event of an unexpected disruption in funding. I am happy to share that we hit our goal!

In January, New to You expanded by purchasing a second store. We celebrate this milestone, as it aligns with our financial sustainability plan to increase long-term contributions.

We engaged in thoughtful discussion regarding tuition for the upcoming year. Ultimately, the Committee and Board approved a 1.5% increase. In the year ahead, we plan to further develop a financial sustainability model that will allow us to take a more strategic, forward-looking approach to tuition rather than adjusting it year by year.

We also worked diligently to present a balanced budget once again this year and are pleased to report that we met our annual fund goal.

As God closes one door, He opens another. We are excited to welcome Mary into her new role at Central and look forward to working alongside her in the coming year.

God cares deeply about how we manage the resources He entrusts to us. Scripture speaks extensively about money, wealth, and possessions, and Jesus frequently taught on these topics. As a Committee and Board, we take this responsibility seriously and are grateful for the trust you have placed in us.

Thank you for your continued support and partnership.
Heidi Graves, Finance Committee Chair

CMCS FOUNDATION

Our Purpose

Since 1970, the CMCS Foundation has existed with the purpose to promote, accept, and manage gifts for the long-term sustainability of the school. Gifts to the Foundation are invested with the goal of continuing growth. The CMCS Foundation is a separate non-profit entity from the school, governed by its own board, bylaws, mission statement, and giving cycle. The Foundation’s Board of Directors annually distributes 6% on the 3-year average balance of the assets to support Central.

Goal

We continue to aspire towards a target of $12,000,000 in total Foundation assets, equating to an annual distribution potential of $720,000 to the school. We are eager to see our “Live It Forward Campaign” efforts become reality and meet that goal through the continued awareness of and support for the CMCS Foundation.

Current Status

At the end of 2025, the balance in the Foundation was $9,352,202 in total assets, which is a $940,000 increase from 2024-year end. The Foundation has seen strong growth over the past 5 years and is grateful for God’s blessing and the gracious generosity of our donors! It’s so encouraging to see the steady growth of our annual distribution level to school, year over year.

Future Focus

1. Continuing to pursue a goal of $12,000,000 in total Foundation assets by connecting with core donors for consideration of impactful investments to benefit the school for decades.
2. Creating awareness for the variety of mediums through which to engage – from real estate to charitable trusts, memorials, cash, life insurance beneficiary designation, and more.
3. Creating an investment strategy to ensure we are maximizing returns on gifts while still maintaining a safe, well-balanced portfolio.

Thank you again for consideration of how you personally might engage – and spread the word about our targeted goal! Together, we can be a vital part of this legacy opportunity. If you have questions or would like to hear more about the CMCS Foundation, please reach out for a personalized visit.

NEW TO YOU

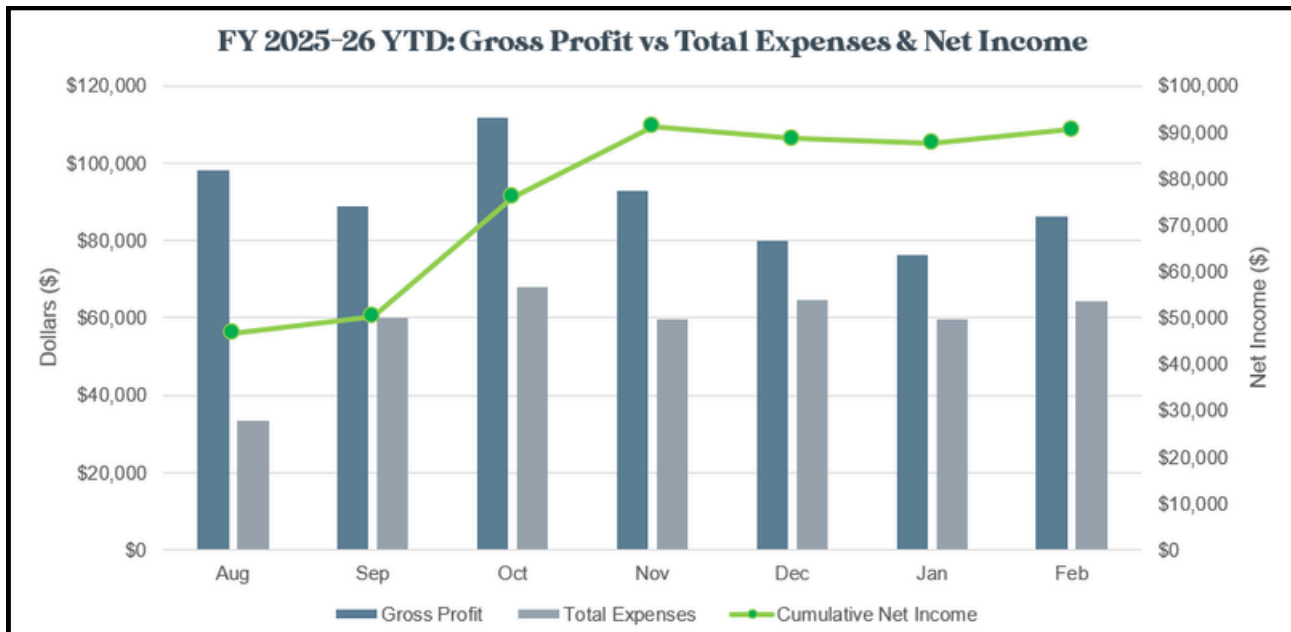

As we prepare to gather for our annual meeting, we pause to reflect with gratitude on another year of God's faithfulness. Once again, we have seen how obedience, generosity, and shared purpose allow Him to work far beyond what we could accomplish on our own.

This past year has been a reminder that our work is about much more than daily operations or financial outcomes. At its heart, our mission remains unchanged: to serve faithfully, to steward wisely, and to support

Christ-centered education while extending compassion to our wider community. Through every donation given, every volunteer hour served, and every customer welcomed, we see God using ordinary acts to accomplish extraordinary good.

We are deeply thankful for the many individuals who continue to invest their time, resources, and prayers into this ministry. Your support not only sustains the work we do today but also helps strengthen the foundation for the generations that follow. Each step forward is the result of a collective commitment to trust God's provision and remain focused on why we do what we do.

As we look ahead, we do so with anticipation and confidence—confident not in our own plans, but in God's continued guidance. Thank you for being part of this story. We look forward to sharing more at our annual meeting and celebrating together all that God has done, and all that is yet to come.

The Net Income is our profit after this year's $15,000 monthly contribution to the school.*

to be tomorrow's creative minds

“Central is a great school, and I am glad to be a student here. We have caring teachers and staff who really want to help us and see us succeed. Most importantly, all the teachers and staff try to keep Christ at the center. They connect their teachings to Christ and teach us about Him in all of our classes. Being at Central has helped me grow stronger in my faith and academics.”

- Silas Taatjes, High School Student

“I love being a student at Central. I have made good friends at school. The teachers I have had are amazing. I like that we get to learn more about Jesus every day.”

- Kalli Fagen, Middle School Student

Family PERSPECTIVES

“We are constantly reminded how quickly time passes as our two daughters finish their freshman and junior years. These seasons have shown us just how important it is to teach our children God's truth during the short, formative years we have them at home. Building a strong spiritual foundation now is an investment that lasts a lifetime. That's why Central was a clear choice for our family years ago. Central does an exceptional job teaching biblical truth and nurturing students' faith in an environment where they feel truly valued and cared for. We are reminded of the calling in Proverbs 22:6: "Train up a child in the way he should go; even when he is old he will not depart from it." There is no greater investment than a Christian education!”

- Nate and Ali Sunvold

“Our family is new to Central, since our son, Paxton, started 4K in the fall of 2024. Our experience has been amazing and such a blessing. He loves school, and it’s easy to see why when you consider the quality of the teachers and the student body. We are so grateful to have the option to send our children to a school with Christ-centered education so close-by.”
